Public Artwork Goals

- A work of art of redeeming quality that advances public understanding of visual art and enhances the aesthetic quality of public places
- Honors Elisabet Ney's art, history and legacy
- Conceptualizes a strong overall artwork design approach that integrates with the site and surrounding natural environment
- Is easily maintained and vandal resistant in an exterior environment
- Is permanent with an expected life span of at least 20 years

Project Background

The Elisabet Ney Museum is the former studio and portrait collection created by 19th century sculptor Elisabet Ney. The museum offers a range of educational programs, exhibits, special events, workshops and lectures throughout the year.

In 1892, European portrait sculptress Elisabet Ney (1833-1907) purchased property in Austin, established a studio named Formosa and resumed her career as a sculptor of notables.

At Formosa, Ney sculpted legendary Texans, including Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston. Ney also assembled at her American studio portraits of European notables, including King Ludwig II of Bavaria, Otto von Bismarck, Arthur Schopenhauer and Jacob Grimm.

At the turn of the 19th century, Elisabet Ney's studio became a gathering place for influential Texans drawn to "Miss Ney" and to the stimulating discussions of politics, art and philosophy that took place there. Following Ney's death, her friends preserved the studio and its contents as the Elisabet Ney Museum and established the Texas Fine Arts Association dedicated to her memory. The Museum is listed on the National Register of Historic Places based on its significance as the former American studio of Elisabet Ney, and a member of the National Trust for Historic Preservation's Historic Artists' Homes and Studios program. The property is also designated as a Texas State Antiquities Landmark, a Texas Recorded Landmark, a City of Austin Landmark, and listed as a contributing site to the Hyde Park National Register Historic district and the Hyde Park Local Historic District.

Receiving 21,000 visitors each year from local, national, and international locations the Elisabet Ney Museum is located in historic Hyde Park. Hyde Park is defined by W. 38 Street to the south, W. 51 Street to the north, Duval Street to the east, and Guadalupe Street to the west. It is situated just north of the University of Texas and borders the neighborhoods of Hancock and North Loop. Hyde Park traces its origins back to 1891 and is considered to be Austin's first suburb.

Artwork Budget: $100,000

Funded by a 2012 voter-approved bond, the Capital Improvement Project features renovation of the Ney studio, including a new HVAC system, improved weatherization, and additional site enhancements. Building and interior improvements will also resolve water penetration and interior air quality issues. As per City of Austin Ordinance 2% of the estimated construction budget is set aside for the commissioning of public art through the AIPP Program.

The total award for the artist contract is $100,000.00 and is paid over the course of the commission with milestones at community engagement, design, fabrication, installation, and closing. AIPP recommends that selected artists or artist-led team budget 20% for their artist design fee, 10% for contingency, and budget the remainder for all other project expenses including but not limited to: insurance, promotion, community engagement, design, all engineering, fabrication, materials, subcontractors, travel, transportation, shipping, permits and installation.

Possible Artwork Siting

There are limited locations where an artwork can be sited throughout the facility and grounds, as the site is historical. Potential artwork locations include a new entry point from Shipe Park on 44th Street and Avenue G. The final artwork site will be determined in collaboration between the selected artist, City staff, and the community.
